STARGATE | AI + mRNA Gene Therapy Vaccines | Trump Declares He Will Use “Emergency Declarations” To Speed Up The Stargate Project | Updated

“Your “Vaccine” Is Ready For You Dave”

Trump has not learned from his first genocide mRNA program and is now starting another.

Trump throws his weight behind new generation of mRNA gene-therapy injections, for cancer and other diseases. Now we know why he never backtracked from the disastrous Operation Warp Speed.

OpenAI, Softbank, and Oracle will be part of a public-private partnership with the Trump White House called Stargate.

The heads of the tech firms plan to invest up to $500 billion over four years, in building AI infrastructure across the United States. This means data centers. Massive buildings designed to collect and process data. Running these centers requires huge amounts of water and energy.

SoftBank CEO Masayoshi Son, Sam Altman of OpenAI, and Larry Ellison of Oracle appeared at the White House on Tuesday afternoon with President Trump to announce the launching of Stargate.

Trump, standing with the three tech CEOs at the White House, said he would invoke “emergency declarations” to help speed up the Stargate project.

“I’m going to help a lot through emergency declarations,” he said. “Because we have an emergency and we need a lot of help. We need energy generation and they will build their own.”

He said Stargate will build the infrastructure to power the “next generation of AI and this will include data centers. Massive facilities...These are big beautiful buildings.”

He said a team is already scouting the nation for sites on which to build new data centers, adding:

“This is to me a very big deal. It could lead to something that could be the biggest of all.”

Larry Ellison talked about combining the forces of AI and mRNA gene therapy to create a “cancer vaccine.”

Ellison said the quiet part out loud. Trump will ramp up mRNA shots for cancer. He told the president “we couldn’t do it without you,” adding:

“You can do early cancer detection with a blood test. And using AI to look at the blood test, you can find the cancers that are actually seriously threatening the person. Then beyond that, once we gene-sequence that cancerous tumor, you can then vaccinate the person, and design a vaccine for every individual person to vaccinate them against that cancer, and you can make that mRNA vaccine. You can make that robotically using AI in about 48 hours. You can have that vaccine available in about 48 hours. This is the promise of AI and the promise of the future.”

So AI will be used to “early diagnose” people with cancer, and then within 48 hours they will get their personalized mRNA cancer jab. What could possibly go wrong with that scenario?’

[What about Ivermectin? When this is curing cancer, why do we need more deadly mRNA injections? - We don't, just another excuse for more genocidal vaccines, again.]

From my experience with the cancer industry, they are already over-diagnosing people with very early stages of cancer and even “pre-cancer,” which leads to over treatment with dangerous chemotherapy and radiation. Which is making people sicker, not better.

Now they will have AI to diagnose us even earlier with the dreaded “C” word. Many people will get scared into receiving a next-generation mRNA gene-altering injection.

Ellison said AI represents the “wave of the future” for cancer treatment.

AI takes center stage at WEF meeting in Davos

The world has yet to fully recognize the extent of change artificial intelligence will bring to every aspect of human life, the CEO of the Abu Dhabi sovereign wealth fund Mubadala told CNBC at the World Economic Forum in Davos Tuesday.

Khaldoon Al Mubarak, managing director of the $330 billion fund, told CNBC's Dan Murphy:

"In terms of the risks ... this is a technology that no one today really appreciates, truly the level of disruption [aka destruction] that it's going to create, affecting everything from our lives, our businesses, human capital, employment, every sector is going to be disrupted."

He added:

"And I think that while there's a lot of opportunity, it also presents significant amount of risk, which is today unclear, because the technology is moving so fast and we're all trying to catch up as much as possible."

Al Mubarak outlined the push his investment fund has been making into AI and the infrastructure that supports the rapidly advancing technology, including data centers and chip manufacturing.

Mubadala is a founding investor in MGX, Abu Dhabi's AI-focused investment vehicle. The fund took part in OpenAI's latest fundraising round in October, which raised $6.6 billion. That same month, the wealth fund's dedicated AI company, G42, announced a partnership with OpenAI to develop AI in the United Arab Emirates and regional markets.

Project 'Stargate' is upon us: Trump to invest $500 billion in new U.S. data centers to boost the power of artificial intelligence

Is Trump being used to build out the superstructure of a digital system that could later be weaponized by some future ruler? Just as 5G and Warp Speed were weaponized?

President Donald Trump's grand vision for an AI project code-named "Stargate" just got jump-started with an infusion of $500 billion.

To understand what's going on, you must read my January 19 article "It's all a game: Both 'sides' serve the same master". This article was controversial, I will be the first to admit that.

The article's comment section blew up as soon as I posted the piece Sunday afternoon, the day before President Trump's inauguration.

But even I had no inkling that my warnings about Trump would manifest so quickly. I expected it to take months, if not years, before I was vindicated in publicly revealing my concerns about the man that I and my fellow conservatives voted for to be the 47th president of the United States. After all, the alternative was unthinkable.

Take a look at the news today about Trump's AI investment bombshell, a story which is breaking at CBS News and in the conservative media at Zero Hedge. Below is an excerpt from the Zero Hedge version.

Shares of US-based technology company Oracle surged as much as 6.5% in late-afternoon trading following a CBS News report indicating that President Donald Trump plans to announce billions of dollars in private sector investment to expand America's artificial intelligence infrastructure.

Sources say OpenAI, Softbank, and Oracle will be part of the joint venture called "Stargate." The heads of the tech firms plan to invest $100 billion, then up to $500 billion over four years, in building AI infrastructure across the US.

SoftBank CEO Masayoshi Son, Sam Altman of OpenAI, and Larry Ellison of Oracle will be in the White House on Tuesday afternoon. There were no further details about the Stargate JV, except with the understanding that more information will be unveiled later.

According to sources, Stargate will begin with a massive data center in Texas, with additional AI projects planned across other states. Other investors are expected to join the venture.

Forget the practical issues with this policy, such as the fact that we already have a shortage of water and electric power in this country, two things that these massive data-collection centers consume with unmatched voracity. We will get what's left over, and pay higher prices for it.

As I stated in my Sunday Substack post, Republican presidents often play the role of set-up man for future Democrat presidents. Bush did it for Obama with the USA Patriot Act, FISA Court and intrusive Homeland Security apparatus. Trump 1.0 did it for Biden with Operation Warp Speed and 5G. And now Trump 2.0 is doing it for a future Democrat president with AI. He is going to invest half a trillion dollars to build out the superstructure of artificial intelligence, which will later be weaponized against we the people by a future administration. The future president, perhaps a Democrat, will use the Trump-maximized power of AI to establish a digital surveillance slave state second to none in the world, and throughout history.

Trump is putting together the most impressive, intimidating public-private partnership the world has ever seen to realize his dream of creating a supersized AI.

Do not be deceived by all the good and necessary things Trump is doing. I'm glad he is shoring up the border, declaring there are only two genders, and hopefully bringing an end to all the wars. But at the same time, it's all a set up. Biden was used by the globalists to break down the country so that Trump could put it back together again — build back better in the image of the World Economic Forum's vision for a Great Reset and all-powerful digital beast system. He is building the infrastructure of the future "algocracy," or rule by algorithm. Where everything and everyone is tagged, tracked and measured. Where every life is allotted a value based on their consumption vs their production. Where 15-minute cities will lack nothing in their quest to control the movement of people. Where paper cash is a quaint memory, and the same for your plastic ID. Where wallets are virtual and digital, not something you can put in your pocket.

I don't believe President Trump knows what he is doing. I believe he would shudder if he could see the future he is going to make possible through AI. Trump truly thinks he is just going about the business of making America great again through technological advancement. But he is a tool of the technocratic/transhumanist elites. This is why Elon Musk, Peter Thiel, Mark Zuckerberg, Jeff Bezos, and so many other technocrats are groveling at Trump's feet. They see a super-popular political figure with a vision of greatness for America that can be co-opted by their vision for the world and humanity 2.0. And when Trump's done with his mission, another more sinister man will come on the stage to weaponize his works.

Mark it down.

Or, as technocrats have openly speculated, perhaps we won't need a president or political leaders of any kind in the future. AI will run the country, and the world.
